After all of the hard work, we're finally seeing the "fruits of our labor". Over the last two work sessions, we placed and ballasted all of the rail between the drives. Mind you, there is a learning curve with respect to this. I expect that things will start picking up pretty quickly, although the heat is picking up too. Next Saturday, the expected high may reach 100 (but it's a dry heat!).

Here are photos taken by Hans (thank you Hans):
